Dear Parents/Carers,

There have been reports from local primary schools and residents over the last few days of a man approaching children and asking them if they would like to deliver newspapers for him in return for payment.

Similar incidents have been reported of a man approaching adults, asking if they have children and making the same offer of delivering newspapers. In one encounter the man claimed that he worked for the Liverpool Echo and was carrying a clipboard.

Two different descriptions have been given:

Description 1: Male, scruffy looking appearance, track suit bottoms and scruffy t shirt. 50's carrying a clipboard.

Description 2: Male, in mid 50's with grey short hair of slim build, smart appearance.

I would ask that parents/carers mention this to their children over the weekend and ask them to be vigilant. We will also discuss this issue with pupils in school.

Regards
